DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fahim.

The cited patent discloses a method of treating acne on the skin, the method comprising applying to the skin electrochemically generated zinc ions. More specifically, in columns 3, lines 9-17, the specification states:

Insofar as known prior to the present discovery, it was not known that a combination of zinc ions and ascorbic acid would reduce the rate at which sebum is secreted and that if it was applied with ultrasonic vibrations that it would stimulate the production of collagen in the treatment of acne scars. Nor was it known that a combination of zinc ions and ascorbic acid could give rise to a synergistic combination useful in killing the normal microflora found in the pilosebaceous ducts.

Based on the above teaching, it would not be unreasonable to suggest that the teachings of Fahim anticipate the subject matter disclosed in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fahim in view of Crisp et al.

The Fahim patent does not disclose the use of an apparatus having an anode comprising of zinc. However, the application of zinc ions using a device having an anode comprising zinc is conventional in the art as evidenced by the teachings of Crisp et al. The Crisp et al., patent discloses an electrolytic device and teaches the use of an anode comprising zinc.

Based on the teachings of Crisp et al., for a person of ordinary skill in the art, modifying the teachings of the Fahim patent with the use of the electrolytic apparatus of Crisp et al., would have been considered obvious in view of the conventionality of the use of electrolytic apparatuses to treat skin with zinc ions.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-14 and 16-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
